

MEDIA RELEASE

GET A Foothold in the “NEW” Oldham

A UNIQUE insight in to the opportunities for the future, in the Borough of Oldham, is to take place on the morning of Wednesday 21st April at the Avant Hotel.

Sponsored by leading law Firm, Pearson Hinchliffe, and the NatWest Bank, this Event will highlight the business development opportunities arising within Oldham due to Government and European investments and regeneration projects currently taking place.

John Bird, Executive Director for Regeneration at Oldham Metropolitan Borough Council and Gordon Hood, National Head of King Sturge's Grants and Urban Regeneration group will propose to enlighten an estimated audience of 100 businessmen and women about the Oldham Beyond Project.

The Oldham Beyond Project was commissioned last July by the Local Strategic Partnership (Oldham) and the Northwest Development Agency. Together, they have developed a vision and strategy for the renaissance of Oldham. This Wednesday's seminar will provide an exclusive insight for the North West business community to hear about opportunities available for local business development and investment.

When speaking about the Event, Pearson Hinchliffe's Senior Partner, Roger Hinchliffe says, "The knowledge and information given out at this briefing is of integral importance to those members of the business community who wish to play a part in Oldham's future financial and commercial success. Together with National Westminster, we feel that by sponsoring this Event, we can show our confidence and belief in the vast opportunity for businesses to play their part and maximise the potential of the regeneration process."

For further information about attending this event, please call Juliet Emmerson, Pearson Hinchliffe on 0161 785 3500.
